

2014 VIRTUAL GENEALOGY FAIR

Introduction to Genealogy

Learn how to do basic genealogical research using Federal records at the National Archives.

Claire Kluskens

Archivist

National Archives at
Washington, DC

Claire Kluskens is a genealogical projects archivist specializing in immigration, census, military, and other records of high genealogical value. She spearheaded the completion of more than 300 National Archives microfilm publications. She lectures frequently and has published extensively in national, state, and local genealogical publications. Claire has been a National Archives staff member since 1992 and has done genealogical research since 1976.